The Power of Encodings and Operators in NAS Building Blocks

Jordan Donovan

- Neural Networks are extremely successful

- Neural Architecture Search avoids the manual process of construction

- Building Block technique in NAS has become a staple

- These techniques are constrained by the objective-driven designers

- Inducing diversity and encouraging exploration in both encoding of building block and operators of evolution has potential to yield powerful solutions in NAS.